

BSSonline: Safety you can see.

Until now, life safety training has meant boring classroom sessions, dry videos or old-fashioned safety manuals that a lot of people don't read.

Not any more...now there's BSSonline.

BSSonline, customized especially for your building, gives your tenants and employees all the information they need to respond to most emergencies via compelling digital images, 3-D simulations, narration and text...right at their desks. BSSonline makes safety training come alive. It's a program that can enable people to save themselves.

Archangel.

It makes operations and emergency preparedness training easy, accurate... and even interesting.

Archangel has opened a new page in safety training. Or more accurately, a new screen. Your staff—and first responders—will never be better prepared to deal with emergencies.

Archangel is a state-of-the-art computer-based training system that's custom-designed for your property. It holds detailed graphic information about your building's operations and safety features. With the touch of a computer key, Archangel shows the internal structure of your building, pinpointing important elements like exit locations, stairwells and fire control rooms.

Through digitization and simulation, Archangel illustrates your building's mechanical, electrical, plumbing and life safety systems, serving as an important training mechanism for key building staff members.

- ❖ Archangel gives your personnel authorized access to what they need to learn and to train on critical operations systems in your building.
- ❖ Because it's so easy to revise and update, the information on Archangel is always current and accurate.
- ❖ Its built-in learning management system monitors training and progress among a community of users. Superior training like this can prevent costly mistakes, limit liability and assure more satisfied tenants.

In these days of high employee and contractor turnover, this program can be an invaluable tool for efficiently and consistently training new personnel.

Just what first responders ordered

Traditional floor plans, blueprints and manuals are slow, cumbersome and often out of date. But Archangel gives police, firefighters and paramedics the specific, up-to-date building information they need. Using your Archangel data stored on secure, portable devices, they can access your building's information enroute to your property to better direct emergency crews in much less time.

Archangel — a valuable investment

Beyond the safety and security Archangel adds to a property, it can also add value. Archangel gives building owners a competitive advantage when they're leasing or selling—it's a value-added feature that's attractive to potential tenants and prospective buyers. The return on your investment in Archangel can be substantial.

The Archangel Advantages

Archangel is a uniquely valuable tool:

- ❖ It's customized for each building and can be changed easily when your property does.
- ❖ It makes for a better prepared staff, leading to a more well-protected building.
- ❖ It uses the latest technology in access controls and advanced encryption to prevent unauthorized use and maintain security.
- ❖ Because it demonstrates your efforts to reduce liability, it may lead to lower insurance premiums.

From day-to-day operations to dealing with critical emergencies, Archangel can make your building more appealing, safer and more valuable.
